

Perspectives for 2015

Rio Olesky's Annual Astrological Evening

Wars are circling the world. A 21st century plague is breaking out in Africa. Global warming is making an impact. It would seem as if our only options are fear and hopelessness. Life, however, provides us with free will that enables us to determine how we choose to respond to these realities. The planets of our solar system provide the energies that we can utilize in executing our choices. Their influences may be challenging, but they also offer us ways of responding to the difficulties creatively and in ways that promote personal growth. Some of the influences can be pleasant and supportive in our quest for joy and fulfillment. The challenge is to make sure we tune in and take full advantage of those energies.

Rio will be discussing:

- The ongoing impact of the Uranus-Pluto square
- Saturn transiting into Sagittarius
- Jupiter transiting through Leo and into Virgo
- The solar eclipse at 29° Pisces on March 20°
- Venus retrograde
- Mercury retrograde in air signs

Join Rio as he delineates these and other important energy patterns we will experience this year. The focus of the talk will be on understanding the nature of the influences and learning how to work with them in terms of consciousness development and personal growth. He will also discuss how the energies could affect us collectively politically, economically and in international relations.
